

The I and the V make up a tonal relationship that we are all familiar with.

This is most commonly the last two chords in music, with the V resolving to the I.

Understanding triads is very important as it can help us make decisions as ensemble members with tuning.